THE HICKORY HIGH SCHOOL SONG

Oh, Hickory High School,
My Hickory High School,
We will ever sing to thee.

Oh, Hickory High School,
My Hickory High School,
May your honors ever be.

Now on to victory,
To fame and victory,
For her praise we'll always bring
We're loyal and true to our Alma Mater
And in her name we'll ever sing.

THIS BOOK
IS THE STORY
OF OUR WORK
THROUGH FOUR YEARS!

DEDICATION

To Charles A. Bair, our new prinipal, teacher and coach in our school for the past five years, the Seniors of 1935 gratefully offer this book as symbol of appreciation.

The Honor Permit System and an activities period were chief among his innovations.

Mr. Bair has created an atmosphere of hearty cooperation between the students and faculty.

OUR JANITOR

Such stoking as this by our janitor, Floyd Kilgore, provided a warm studyhall, an unheard of precedent, which was appreciated by the senior class this year.

"Kelley" lives in Hickory Township, and was graduated from Hickory High School in 1928. Last year he substituted for Charley Birch, whom he succeeded.

Seniors' Jokes

THE FIRST SENIOR PLAY

"DR. JEKYL AND MR. HYDE"

A darkened stage, a fiendish laugh, the thud of a falling body and the curtain drops on the first act of "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," presented by the Senior Class February 8, 1935

The plot of "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," centers around the good man, Dr. Jekyl, who suffers from a mentel disease which causes him to turn into a deformed villian Mr. Hyde who committs shocking crimes.

Coach, Sara L. Gaugh

THE SECOND SENIOR PLAY

"CHARLEY'S AUNT"

The second senior play presented Friday, May 17, opens in Jack's room at St. Olde's College, England.

The play centers around two college boys, Jack (John Downing) and Charley, Jack's college pal, (Frank Smith), who are in love with Kitty (Grayce Thompson) and Amy (Mary King). Charley's rich aunt, Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez, (Genevieve Grundy), is supposed to visit the boys. They invite the girls to their room but the aunt doesn't arrrve.

Lord Fancort Babberly, (Frank Lazorishak), disguises as the aunt to keep the girls at the luncheon. But the real aunt arrives and complications arise.

Coach, Sara L. Gaugh.

THE SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Late in the summer of 1931, four highway schooners (busses to you), dropped anchor off the fair shores of Hickory. Immediately the stately vessels that were to be their only contact with the outside world for four years, dropped anchor.

The hardy pioneers had overcome the difficulties of elementary schools, and had voted as one in favor of moving on to the new world of Hickory, which was as they understood peopled with savages (juniors, seniors and sophomores) who took great delight in torturing all newcomers throughout their first year.

We immediately set forth upon the task of civilizing these queer people. We were held back a little by not understanding the languages, customs, and surroundings, but we were aided by the new members of the wizer-wowers high council (faculty) Misses Monroe and Glenn and Mr. Zahnizer) and also by the fact that several members of our expedition excelled the natives at their own works and games. Among these were Sunderland, vocalist, Kamensky and Lysohir, basketballers, of no mean repute. We were also represented in girls' basketball and other activities popular among the infidels.

As a whole our first year was a success for, we had proved that we were a host to be reckoned with, we had gained a stronghold on the second and third floors, and we had built a foundation upon which we could rest the tasks of the future.

As sophomores, we were assured of success, although we had lost 21 members, we had so far tamed the inhabitants of our domain, that each year a new contingent of explorers arrived, but had we not softened their sufferings, they would have passed away, for they did not have our mettle. That year we organized the Hi-Y, participated successfully in sports, and were especially prominent in the Literary Contests which are peculiar to this world.

In our third year, under the guidance of Miss Monroe, we shone afar. The high council was unchanged and all was quiet. The men or the party presented a hillarions style show, for the benefit of the prom, which was a gala affair. The Barbarians were so well tamed that they did not notice we were not following the age old custom of feeding them. In the operettas and Literary contests, as always, we were well represented, and it was this year that the Hi-Y put up the footlights.

Athletes, contestants and school leaders galore, as seniors we did truly shine, but we must be somewhat trying to the natives, since the whole stock has moved away. We have three new council members, Misses Glasgow and Wishart, and Mr. Pirrung, and a new high wizer-wower, Mr. Bair, and he approves our plan for modernizing and civilizing this world.

Now we have served our time, and I have filled my space, we must go into the world a wiser and sadder lot, to make room for the new explorers. But we feel that we have done our work well and many are the names in our roster that will appear in the histories of tomorrow.

—Frank Lazorishak.

THE SENIOR CLASS WILL

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for a class of Hickory High School to advance from these portals and seek a living among those before departed, it is only right and necessary to dispose of all possessions no longer needed by us and which will be of necessity and use to others not so far advanced.

First, we as a whole, do leave the best home room any senior class has ever had the good fortune to establish, to the junior class with the fervent hope that they may keep it as well as we did. Secondly, we do bequeath a much wiser and far more intelligent senior sponsor to the aforementioned miscreants. We leave to the juniors our perfect example of good behavior in court, and our money making ability, our P. O. D. papers, our worn permits. To the beloved Faculty, we leave the space we occupied to be refilled with intellectual minds to remind them of us.

I, Joe Esmond, leave my hidden love to Elden Clarke.
I, James Jackson, leave my funny little grin to Earl Barnes.
I, Andrew Karas, leave my Irish accents to Victoria O'Kresick.
I, John Mild, leave my ear to ear grin to Nellie Buckalew.
I, Lyle Derrenbacher, leave my contented ways to Walter Ehmsen.
I, John Downing, leave my rosy, red cheeks to Albina Roch.
I, Robert Englebaugh, leave my bumming skill to Bill Barber.
I, Herbert Guthrie, leave my love of detective stories to John Wishart.
I, Daniel Grundy, leave my ability to get along with girls to Thomas Fitzgerald.
I, Robert Kimmel, will my tardy and absent marks to Norman Oakes.
I, John Fitzgerald, will my ability to make faces and roll my eyes to Gene Barlett.
I, George Venable, leave my Joe. E. Brown grin to Eunice Evans.
I, George Bodien, will my ability at checkers to Frank Gaines.
I, Anna Borborsky, leave the dimples in my chin to Lois Downing.
I, Frank Lazorishak, leave my ability to converse fluently to Joe Saloga.
I, Victor Steele, leave my dependability to Mildred Hassel.
I, Helen Tikey, leave my way of applying make-up to Laura Meyers.
I, Nellie Lisac, leave my Wheatland brogue to Walter Novak.
I, Bertha Klingle, leave my enchanting ways to Mildred Parker.
I, Helen Long, will my sparkling eyes to Irma Popovitch.
I, Mary Murko, leave my way with French to Chet Barlett.
I, Anna Paulits, leave my shy manners to Jack McKee.
I, Rena Clepper, will my ability to tickle the ivories to Bobby Watkins.
I, Muriel Ehmsen, leave my way with the boys to Gladys Shaffer.
I, Genevieve Grundy, leave my dramatic ability to Eleanor Hoagland.
I, Omar Barnes, leave any girls who have fallen in love with me to Red Nye.
I, M. Miles, bequeath my position as beggar for the Valentine Dance to H. Hogue.
I, Ellen Sunderland, will my vocal ability to Esther Minner.
I, Virginia Hanna, leave my peculiar way of seeing things to Red Dolan.
I, Anna Hricik, leave my cheering voice to Dorothy Powell.
I, Eleanor Jackson, leave my wee, winsome ways to Rhoda Johnson.
I, Mary King, will my merry laugh to Lorraine Crosby.
I, Lillian Ramage, leave my boyishness to Lois Allen.
I, Grace Thompson, leave my brilliancy to Joe Saloga.
I, Anna Zurko, leave my sweet voice to Joe Weller.
I, Marjorie Simons, leave my marks—not men—to Maxine McGraw.
I, Elizabeth Sikora, leave my spelling ability to Sara Dolan.
I, Anna Geisel, leave my ability to get English to Joe Chnapko.
I, Alice Novak, leave my way of accuracy to Irene Weisen.
I, William Anderson, leave my big feet to Mary Beil.
I, William Barnes, leave my ability to elude the girls to Philip Smith.
I, Irvin Orr leave my basketball suit to John Aicher.
I, George Porter, leave my name as "Pansy" to Lewis Bittler.
I, Ralph Meyers, leave my big walk to James Dixon.
I, Frank Smith, leave my height to Sammy Geisel.
I, John Venable, leave my sheikish ways to Carl Gilliland.
I, Charles Kuzin, leave my Socratenian attitude to Helen MacDonald.
I, Charles Knapp, leave my place in sports to Sophia Wasnak.
I, George Sobey, leave my blushing ways to Donald Hunter.
I, Mary Bonasera, leave my curly hair to Jane Norman.
I, Violet Baker, leave my disgust for men to Janet Ferver.
I, Rose Baumgartner, leave my golden locks to Genevieve Novak.
I, Temple Bartholomew, will my basketball ability to Dewey Volkey.

THE CLASS PROPHECY

"Copy Boy! Where are you? Where's that last batch of ads? Where's" (The scene is a large newspaper office. The hard boiled editor is just starting work.) "Here they are! I mean the ads." "O. K. check that list as I read them. Mild's Dairy, Jackson's Garage, Long's Beauty Parlor, Omar Barnes' Food Palace. Look at this: Ellen Sunderland, opera star in person. Boy, reserve a table at the Palace for me. Clepper Piano School, Baker and Jackson's Hat Shoppe, Sobey and Guthrie, Civil Engineers. And????, will sell 100 head of cattle and horses, March fourth. Regardless of weather. William Anderson."

Hearing of so many pals from Hickory certainly makes me think of the old days. weren't we terrors in those days? I'll have to go back for a visit. But here the copy boy interrupted my reveries with,—"Here's some sport dope that needs your attention." "Whoop! Orr's all star quintet tops Oiler's 29-24," "William Barnes to hurl for Giants." "Referee Knapp proposes new rules for basketball." "Englebaugh, speedway racer injured. Ah! This is it. Dr. Downing states that Englebaugh's injuries are not serious." "Kuzin throws Londos II, some wrestler, that boy." "We'll spread these articles puh-lenty."

L. Derrenbacher called up from the court-house and gave these marriage license reports. Joe Esmond weds Lillian Ramage, and Robert Kimmel weds Anna Hricik. Here are some personals to print: Anna Barborsky and Helen Tikey are home on a vacation from West Penn Training School. Yeah, and Anna Zurko sails tomorrow, for Europe, to train in vocal.

Now for the front page. "Frank Smith breaks altitude record." "John Fitzgerald lectures at Teachers' Institute." "M. King speaks on 'Physical Education'." "Others present were M. Ehmsen, B. Klingle, * * * * *." "President Steele asks Chamber of Commerce to pass ordinances." This issue is going to look like a mertopolitan version of the "Hickory Leaf." "Pardon, me," (copy boy speaking) "A gentleman, Rev. Porter, to see you." "I've come to request that your reporters be more careful when quoting from my sermons." "They shall, sir, but look at this," "Inspector Saras runs down dope ring," "R. Baumgartner and N. Lisac take baking prizes at fair," and "Anna Paulits gives typing demonstration."

"I've gotta call Bodien and Myers, and have them haul the ink from Grundy's Hardware."

"I'm going out to lunch now. If the Venable Brothers call, have them repair the Electric Wire-photo Unit." "Did you wish to see me?" "Yes, I'm Temple Bartholomew. Are you the Editor? I'd like to show you the latest editions of * * * *." "Bookseller, eh? Sign me up for a complete set and let's go to 'Barnes' Palace' for lunch."

At the "Palace" we were served by M. Bonasera and G. Grundy, and met M. Miles, another successful business woman.

Back at the office, I found the club news and a list of hospital graduates. Among the club activities were: "M. Simons and G. Thompson speaking at the Civic League, Virginia Hanna entertaining the Literary Ladies, and Business Women's Club entertained by Alice Novak." "Elizabeth Sikora and Mary Murko headed the graduate nurses. Anna Geisel gave the Valedictory address."

And now we have accounted for the entire Class of '35, except for the hard-boiled city editor, Frank Lazorishak.

THE CLASS NIGHT

The Seniors went Dutch May 27 with wooden shoes, and quaint dresses and bagged trousers in blue and gold.

The theme of the play hinged on the fairy tale of Hansel and Gretel which was enacted before a ginger bread house decked out with stacks of pink frosting.

ADIEU

The day is done. The sun is set,
A day so hot and long.
The work is o'er. Our task is met.
We bask in evening song.
Our tired limbs and weary minds
Watch dusk approach with joy.
Soft breezes, cool, and sweet, and kind,
The fruit of tears and toil.

School days are through. We now are set
To make our way in life.
We bid adieu to those we've met,
To friend and foe alike.
To teachers who have led us through,
These four long years of strife.

"Red" Dolan

"Chet" Barlett

Andy

ANDY KARAS, '35

Andy's substitute position as guard or center is really amazing. Fat does not do much shooting, but his floor game is plenty smooth.

LEONARD DOLAN, '36

"Red" may be the shortest forward but that does not keep him from scoring. "Red" passes swiftly and without hesitation. When Dolan gets that ball you can expect that score to "run up." He dribbles down the floor and into the basket goes that ball. He has been dubbed "The Red Terror."

JACK McKEE, '36

It must run in the family. Jack's brother was the famous "Jimmy" of '31. Jack, as guard, makes those baskets without difficulty. Another mite, but mighty.

CHESTER BARLETT, '36

Chester is our six foot one guard on the squad. "Chet" puts his whole soul into the game and he will go down in basketball history as an enthusiastic player. Leave it to Chet to make those long shots. Maybe he specializes on thrillers because his father is right there giving him a helping cheer and constant advice.

JOHN FITZGERALD, '35

This is Johnny's first year on the squad. He capably filled the position of guard. Not many goals were scored against him.

CHARLES KNAPP, '35

"Chuck" is a snappy little forward always in there fighting for the ball. This is his first year on the squad..

GEORGE NYE, '37

A substitute for forward has participated in some big games. "Red's" passes are swift and sure. He shows up with Dolan as another good red-headed player. He has two more years.

JOHN AICHER, '38

That iron man who has his heart set for victory. "Kid"Aicher is a boxer by trade and never gives up until the whistle blows. John has a sweet, little pivot shot that arouses the spectators' enthusiasm. One of his outstanding abilities is to get the ball off the bank board.

CARL GILLILAND, '36

Carl, lanky, curley-headed, blonde, junior came from West Middlesex high last year and passed the tryouts for the first team. Carl is there throughout the whole game. His dodging and shifting sure keeps his opponent guessing.

GENE BARLETT, '38

Gene is a freshman in the second team. He plays guard in a neat and swift fashion. Much is to be expected from Gene in his basketball career for he puts his shoulder to the wheel. Yes, he is Chets brother.

THE GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

The girls team played only five games this year due to lack of competition. Sunderland, at forward, King and Bartholomew at guards completed their fourth year on the squad. Ramage held down the position of center, her second year on the team.

The team pulled through in good shape in spite of the loss of three of last year's team.

Next year there will probably be no girl's team. We all like to see the girls in action, and will miss their snappy playing.

Coach—Sara J. Long.

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

The annual interclass basketball tournament was won this year by the junior class. We had a well organized schedule extending throughout the season.

The class teams were coached as usual, by members of the varsity squad. Seniors, Andy Karas; juniors, Leonard Dolan; sophomores, Jack McKee; freshmen, Gene Barlett; eighth grade, John Aicher.

Chester Barlett and Leonard Dolan acted as referees, while Joe Salaga was time keeper.

INTERCLASS MUSHBALL TOURNAMENT

An intra-mural mushball league was organized this year, by Mr. Pirrung, to replace baseball. There were eight teams, each class being represented by two teams. In this way practically every boy in the school had a chance to play.

Every team in the league played every other team. The total average for both teams of the class decided the championship.

"BELLE OF BARCELONA"

The plot centers around a wealthy plantation owner's daughter, Margareta, who has just come from finishing school. Years before, her ambitious parents had promised her to a nobleman. When she returns, she renews her acquaintance with an American Custom Inspector, Harold Wright, whom she wants to marry. Hal suspects the nobleman of customs evasion, and proves him guilty. The nobleman pleads mercy, which releases Margareta from engagement. This results in wedding bells. Hal's companion, on Irish officer, and Margareta's governess, an old maid, afforded much humor.

BASKETBALL BANTER

Dolan, with his locks of red,
In scoring points he has led
In "33" he made the team
And ever since has been a beam.

Of stature he is only a mite
But has done his work every bit.
A clever floor man we may say
And has one year yet to play.

In center post we have Barlett
A junior whom we all have met.
In height and build he leads them all
Measuring more than six feet tall.

With his daddy on the bleachers
In with all other screechers
Saying, "Check 'em", loud and clear
Keeps Chester from any fear.

Aicher is a green freshie,
But just look here and see
In basketball he is not so green
On fouls and shots he is quite keen.

He ran up his points to 31
For Johhny it is a lot of fun
He also on the fiddle can play
And a boxer too, I should say.

A new one to our ranks has come
Of past experience he has some.
In Middlesex Gilliland played
And our varsity he has made.

He a guard with curly hair
Checks and watches his man with care,
Plays the game with the other four
To win the trophey with a hugh score.

Look my children and you shall see
The basketball career of Jack McKee
In 33, little and lean
He made one of the first sixteen.

He may be short
But he holds the fort
With long shots and the sort
John Henry Jack McKee.
